The Anabantidae are a family of perciform fish commonly called the climbing gouramies or climbing perches. The family includes about 34 species. As labyrinth fishes, they possess a labyrinth organ, a structure in the fish's head which allows it to breathe atmospheric oxygen. Fish of this family are commonly seen gulping at air at the surface of the water

Prelude is a short story by Katherine Mansfield. It was first published by the Hogarth Press in July 1918, and reprinted in Bliss and Other Stories (1920). The story is based on the Beauchamps' move to Karori a country suburb of Wellington in 1893. Alpers says that some readers may not pick up the numerous hints that Linda is pregnant.

It is important to apply compression in the morning when the edema is reduced, so that the bandages don't slide down. It is also important to have the patient in a position where the ankle is kept in neutral alignment, or even slightly dorsiflexed, so that the bandages don't cut into the anterior aspect of the ankle when the patient stands up and walks.
